

Help Stop Rape

Be safe, both about yourself and others. Do not assume that your partners desire for affection is the same as a desire for sex. Most victims already know their assaulters' name and face. Be smart. Haverford may seem like a safe place, but statistics are just as high here as anywhere in the country.

Communicate your desires early and clearly in any intimate situation and listen to and respect what your partner says. Misunderstandings dramatically increase the risk of sexual assault.

Speak Out! When you hear comments that degrade women or support rape, like many jokes do, speak out against it. Take a stand on the issue, and allow yourself to be labelled "anti-rape." Know and spread the truth about rape at Haverford: it happens just as much here as anywhere else.

Talk to each other. Sexual Assault is only a silent burden and an unspoken danger because we allow it to be.

Support Survivors. They are the casualties of our silence and inaction and deserve our love and support. If someone tells you their story, be understanding and believe them. Let them regain control of their life by themselves, but support that effort.

www.students.haverford.edu/masar
masar@haverford.edu

Help Stop Rape

Be safe, both about yourself and others. Do not assume that your partners desire for affection is the same as a desire for sex. Most victims already know their assaulters' name and face. Be smart. Haverford may seem like a safe place, but statistics are just as high here as anywhere in the country.

Communicate your desires early and clearly in any intimate situation and listen to and respect what your partner says. Misunderstandings dramatically increase the risk of sexual assault.

Speak Out! When you hear comments that degrade women or support rape, like many jokes do, speak out against it. Take a stand on the issue, and allow yourself to be labelled "anti-rape." Know and spread the truth about rape at Haverford: it happens just as much here as anywhere else.

Talk to each other. Sexual Assault is only a silent burden and an unspoken danger because we allow it to be.

Support Survivors. They are the casualties of our silence and inaction and deserve our love and support. If someone tells you their story, be understanding and believe them. Let them regain control of their life by themselves, but support that effort.

www.students.haverford.edu/masar
masar@haverford.edu

Help Stop Rape

Be safe, both about yourself and others. Do not assume that your partners desire for affection is the same as a desire for sex. Most victims already know their assaulters' name and face. Be smart. Haverford may seem like a safe place, but statistics are just as high here as anywhere in the country.

Communicate your desires early and clearly in any intimate situation and listen to and respect what your partner says. Misunderstandings dramatically increase the risk of sexual assault.

Speak Out! When you hear comments that degrade women or support rape, like many jokes do, speak out against it. Take a stand on the issue, and allow yourself to be labelled "anti-rape." Know and spread the truth about rape at Haverford: it happens just as much here as anywhere else.

Talk to each other. Sexual Assault is only a silent burden and an unspoken danger because we allow it to be.

Support Survivors. They are the casualties of our silence and inaction and deserve our love and support. If someone tells you their story, be understanding and believe them. Let them regain control of their life by themselves, but support that effort.

www.students.haverford.edu/masar
masar@haverford.edu

Help Stop Rape

Be safe, both about yourself and others. Do not assume that your partners desire for affection is the same as a desire for sex. Most victims already know their assaulters' name and face. Be smart. Haverford may seem like a safe place, but statistics are just as high here as anywhere in the country.

Communicate your desires early and clearly in any intimate situation and listen to and respect what your partner says. Misunderstandings dramatically increase the risk of sexual assault.

Speak Out! When you hear comments that degrade women or support rape, like many jokes do, speak out against it. Take a stand on the issue, and allow yourself to be labelled "anti-rape." Know and spread the truth about rape at Haverford: it happens just as much here as anywhere else.

Talk to each other. Sexual Assault is only a silent burden and an unspoken danger because we allow it to be.

Support Survivors. They are the casualties of our silence and inaction and deserve our love and support. If someone tells you their story, be understanding and believe them. Let them regain control of their life by themselves, but support that effort.

www.students.haverford.edu/masar
masar@haverford.edu